SECTION B

51 Read the passage below and answer questions that follow.

Marriage is the relationship between man and a woman. For one to marry one must be mature and above eighteen years as in the case of Uganda.

People marry for various reasons among which include to get a life time partner where two become one to defeat temptation of getting in endless love, to produce children and continue with family lineage. The children born can be helpful to their parents by taking care of them when they grow old.

In Uganda, we have three types of marriage. These are civil, customary and religious marriages.

Civil marriage is one performed and recognised by a government official like registrar of marriages or Chief Administrative Officer. (CAO).

In Customary marriage, the families of both the man and the woman have to agree.

Dowry is paid as the bride or as an appreciation and without it marriage may be illegal.

For religious marriage it is based on one's belief and faith it is performed by a Priest, Shero or Pastor who has been registered to conduct such marriages.
